Audience

The New Zealand Law Society Te Kāhui Ture o Aotearoa connects you with almost 17,000 legal professionals plus related subscribers around New Zealand. Our readers represent one of the country's most influential audiences that reflects our diverse population across the regions, ethnicities, and genders.

The Law Society produces specialist titles alongside a flagship national publication. These are complemented with weekly e-news. This presents advertisers with the choice to connect at a national or regional level and at varied frequencies to suit their needs.

Print Advertising

LawTalk

The official quarterly magazine of the Law Society

Since 1974, LawTalk has been the flagship title of the legal profession in New Zealand. It presents advertisers with an exceptional opportunity to connect with one of New Zealand's most influential customer groups.

With vital content directly targeting the issues and interests that matter most and impact the New Zealand legal profession, LawTalk readership also extends to members of the judiciary, New Zealand Law Society Associate Members, Members of Parliament, media, academics, commentators, and others involved in the legal services industry.

Here is what some of our readers and subscribers have to say about this highly regarded title:

"LawTalk is a valuable point of reference for milestones and in-depth commentary relevant to our profession."

"A valuable read that is well shared throughout our office"

"The access to opinion leaders and trends within the profession is highly valued as well as making for a good read."

Produced and distributed in both magazine and digital format, LawTalk reaches a nationwide audience of more than 17,000 legal professionals and related subscribers.

Legal job advertisements

With flexibility in mind, all legal job ads are produced digitally and placed on the New Zealand Law Society website. With a standard 'on site' placement time of four weeks, there is flexibility to amend this to meet specific closing dates or in case of a placement being made within this time. For ads placed on the digital platforms, there is no limit on word count. A small logo or graphic may also accompany these job ads.

Region-specific jobs wishing to use the branch newsletters and those within specialist sections will not appear on the national website. Job ads placed in specialist sections must be relevant to the section targeted.

To advertise a legal job ad in LawPoints please fill out our Legal Jobs Advertisement Form. For our other digital publications please contact our Marketing and Communications Co-ordinator.

Will notices

As New Zealand has no official register of wills, the New Zealand Law Society assists lawyers and private individuals to locate wills that may be held by lawyers. Will notices are published each Thursday in LawPoints, the weekly e-newsletter that reaches over 18,500 lawyers and subscribers nationwide along with placement on the New Zealand Law Society website.

If you know the area where a will is likely to have been made, a notice can also be placed in local Law Society branch newsletters. Below is the common wording of will notices, though not all information will be known for all deceased individuals.

[Name of deceased]

Would any lawyer holding a will for the above named, late of [town or address], [occupation], born on [date of birth] who died on [date of death], please contact [lawyer's name] of [law firm]:

Email: [email address]

Phone: [phone number]

Post: [postal address]

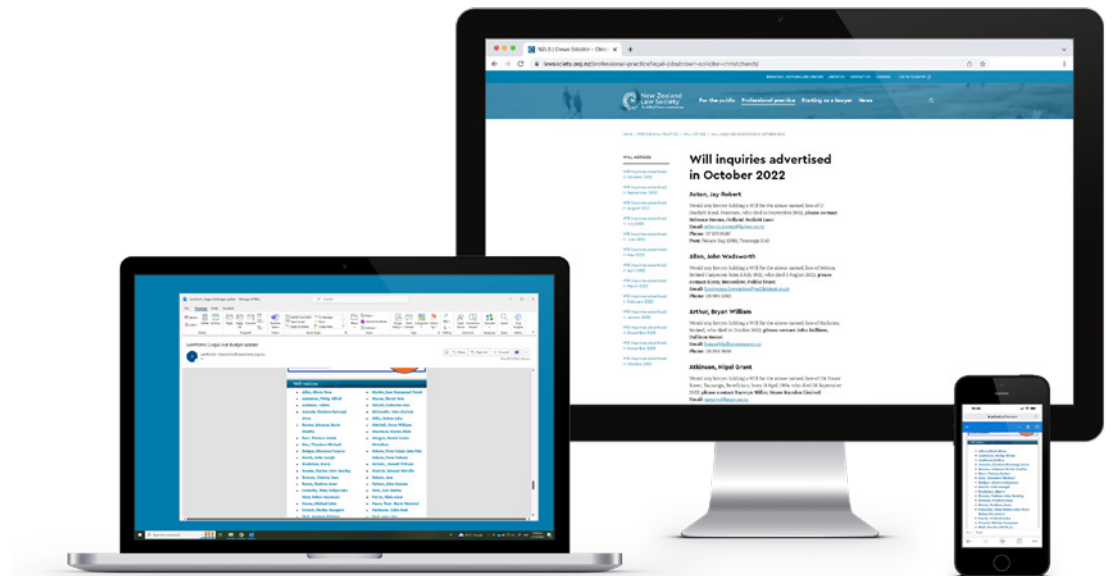

As the common wording above indicates, enquiries are directed towards the law firm or individual who has placed the will notice. The Law Society does not receive or handle any responses to will notices.

If you want to place a will notice in LawPoints please use our Will Notice Booking Form. To submit a will notice for publication in regional/branch newsletter, please contact one of our Branch Managers.

Advertising conditions

1. In these conditions “publications” includes any magazine, book, newspaper, newsletter, booklet, brochure, email, e-newsletter or website which is owned or managed by the New Zealand Law Society.
2. The wording and sentiments expressed in all advertisements is subject to the approval of the New Zealand Law Society Marketing and Communications Manager or person with delegated authority acting on behalf of the New Zealand Law Society, which reserves the right to refuse advertisements which are not compatible with the standards or objectives of the Law Society.
3. Payment for advertising by advertisers located in New Zealand is due on the 20th of the month following the date of invoice.
4. Advertisers wholly located outside New Zealand who wish to advertise in any New Zealand Law Society publication must pay in advance, in accordance with the Additional Advertising Conditions for Overseas Advertisers on page 19.
5. Advertisers are responsible for ensuring that the quality of the material meets the specifications for printing or publication in the appropriate Law Society publication. Specifications for camera-ready material for LawTalk are on page 8 of this Advertising Kit.
6. The New Zealand Law Society has the right to increase all or any advertising rates, subject to one month’s notice being given to advertisers with forward bookings.
7. All placements of advertising are at the discretion of the New Zealand Law Society unless a preferred position or placement is specified and available, and the appropriate additional cost is agreed to by the advertiser.
8. If an advertisement is cancelled after the specified booking deadline, or if camera-ready material fails to arrive in time for publication, or if the material does not meet the requirements and cannot be revised in time for publication, the New Zealand Law Society reserves the right to charge for the cost of the advertisement and, when it applies, any production costs incurred.
9. By booking an advertisement in any New Zealand Law Society publication the advertiser warrants that the advertisement does not contravene the provisions of the Human Rights Act 1993, the Fair Trading Act 1986, the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993 or any other legislation currently in force in New Zealand.
10. Advertisers warrant that they have permission to use and publish all material in their advertisement and that it does not breach any intellectual property rights.
11. Advertisers also warrant that their advertising is fully compliant with the Advertising Codes of Practice issued by the Advertising Standards Authority Incorporated and with every other code or industry standard which relates to advertising in New Zealand where applicable.
12. All discounts for multiple placements are conditional upon the advertiser committing to make the applicable number of consecutive placements. A commitment must be made before the first placement, and the discount cannot be claimed retrospectively.

Overseas advertising conditions

1. Advertisers wholly located outside New Zealand (“overseas advertisers”) must pay in advance for all advertising they book in any New Zealand Law Society publication. Payment must have been deposited in the New Zealand Law Society’s bank account by the specified deadline for prepayment. If prepayment has not been made by the deadline, the New Zealand Law Society has the right not to publish the advertisement.
2. Overseas advertisers who wish to book a series of advertisements must prepay by the prepayment deadline for the issue with which the series will commence.
3. Overseas advertisers paying by direct credit should make payment as follows:

Account Name	New Zealand Law Society
Account Number	12-3140-0119103-07
Bank	ASB Bank
Branch	Lambton Quay, Wellington, New Zealand
Swift Code	ASB BNZ 2A
ASB Sort Code	12-3140
4. The full cost of the advertisement in New Zealand currency must be transmitted. Overseas advertisers should note that some foreign banks deduct fees from the amount transmitted. Any bank fees are additional to the cost of the advertisement.
5. Overseas advertisers paying by Visa or Mastercard must provide by phone (email is not acceptable) the following credit card details to the Finance Team, phone +64 4 472 7837:
 - Card number
 - Expiry date
 - Name on card
 - Security code
(3 digit code beside signature on reverse of card.)

Payment will be deemed to have been made once it has been cleared in New Zealand.
6. Whatever prepayment method is used, overseas advertisers must email confirmation to advertising@lawsociety.org.nz.
